Resulting in poor memory, irritability, nervousness and intellectual exhaustion. Is induced by other forms of disease, such as epilepsy, heart disease, apoplexy, insanity, etc.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Cures.

Mrs. Chas. A. Myers, 201 Hanna St., Fort Wayne, Ind., writes Oct. 7, 1894: "I suffered terribly with severe headaches, dizziness, backache and nervousness, gradually growing worse until my life was despaired of, and try what we would, I found no relief until I commenced using Dr. Miles' Nervine. I have taken five bottles and believe I am a well woman, and I have taken great comfort in recommending all of my friends to use Nervine. You may publish this letter if you wish, and I hope it may be the means of saving some other sick mother's life, as it did mine."

Conscience and Custom.

It is said out of deference to President and Mrs. McKinley there were no intoxicating furnished at the Inaugural Ball, and that at a reception in the White House to young people, friends and relatives of the President's family, no liquors were furnished. All this is encouraging. It would have comported better with the dignity of his office and been more in accord with the principles of the church in which he is a communicant if he stayed away from the silly ball altogether, but even President's are human and sometimes yield to unworthy pressure. But what is of more importance than attendance at the ball is the course of President and Mrs. McKinley with respect to wine in the public functions of the White House. They are both honored members of the great Methodist Episcopal Church, whose declarations are in favor of total abstinence. The President is at the head of a great nation, whose strength lies in the large body of moral and intelligent citizens opposed to the drinking customs of sensual society. Wine on the White House means disregard for the authority of the church which the President and his wife have pledged themselves to support, and going against the command of that large evangelical element including all the truly spiritual people who created and support this government. The plea for wine in the White House is unAmerican and un-Christian. It is paying undue deference to representatives of nations who are more civilized than our own. Instead of bowing down to the flunkies of other nations, we should stand up and represent. We should not modestly but inflexibly on our own custom. Then to say that we give up convictions to please the appetites of our guests, is to say that to be hospitable we must become unmanly. No man would be fit for honorable company who would demand this. Many people are anxious for the success of the new administration, and it is safe to say that it has the good will of the vast majority of the people, regardless of politics. Men skilled in statecraft may help the President, somewhat, in his difficult problems, but nothing will help him so much as loyalty to his Christian principles against the seductions of the organized society of Washington. McKinley keeps wine out of his home, she will honor her religion, her husband in his arduous and worthy to rank with the former mistress of the White House, Lucy Webb Hayes, who stands for all—because Christ and duty, and not degenerate custom, guided her in ordering her household. We commend this infallible guide to him who guides our state and to her who shares the joys, as a true wife should: first the kingdom of God and righteousness, and all these things will be added unto you."

CIVIL SERVICE

ATTRACTS MUCH ATTENTION

Among the Hungry Pie Constituency.

Many are the Cares of Public Men.

Washington, March 18. —Senator Fry, of Maine, stirred up the feelings of the Republican Senators Tuesday by an attack upon the civil service or, as it is called last summer by President Cleveland, A great many Republican Senators are trying to induce President McKinley to revoke Mr. Cleveland's famous blanket order which extended protection to twenty-three thousand Democratic officials who have entered the service by appointment. It has been discovered by candidates for such posts as Collector of Internal Revenue that the Department Collector, a Democrat is under the civil service, and, therefore, not eligible. The Republican who takes the Collectorship must give big bond for faithful performance of his duties and then depend upon a lieutenant not of his own choosing or his own political faith. Not only that, practically all of his employees will be Democrats. Many Senators think this is civil service reform run mad. So far President McKinley has not indicated any willingness to give consideration to the proposition that he revise the order issued by his predecessor. The new President probably has not had a chance to give the matter a moment's thought.

The pressure for places is something frightful. Every Republican Senator's mail is loaded down with letters from men and women asking for places in the Government service, and although the Senators tell their correspondents that there are no offices at their disposal, and that the only way to get into public service is through the doors of the Civil Service Commission. The place hunters do not believe this and continue to write to Senators telling them that if they are really desirous of finding jobs for their constituents there are means of circumventing the Civil Service Commission. Some faint idea of the number of persons anxious to serve their country for a salary can be gained from the fact that for the 140 places to be filled in connection with the reorganization of the clerical forces of the library of Congress there have already been filed 17,000 applications. This was the statement made by Librarian Spafford to the Illinois Senator when they called on him two days ago to find out if they could get a constituent or two on the Librarian's roll.

It ought to be generally understood by this time that practically Senators

The newly wedded couple stepped through the door of the future. They passed from the happy, thoughtless present into an avenue of possibilities. The future is what they make it—what their health makes it—happy or miserable—a success or failure—full of the love and brightness and joyfulness of mutual love and helpfulness, and healthy, rosy, rolicking children, or tortured with pain and sickness and mutual fault-finding and dependence, and lacking the binding tie of healthy, happy offspring. A world depends upon the young wife. If she has taken proper care of herself and is healthy in a womanly way, the probabilities are all in favor of a happy home filled with the music of childish laughter. Too many young women neglect to take care of their womanly selves. They shrink from the distasteful "examinations" and "local treatment" upon which most physicians insist. There is no need for this. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription acts directly on the important and delicate organs concerned in wifehood and motherhood. It makes them strong and healthy. It allays inflammation, heals ulceration, soothes pain and gives the tortured nerves rest and tone. It prepares for wifehood and maternity. Taken during the expectant period, it banishes discomfort and makes the coming of baby easy and comparatively painless. It insures the new-comer's health and an ample supply of natural nourishment. Over 60,000 women have testified to its merits. Druggists who offer substitutes aim to get a few pennies extra profit. Dr. Pierce's great book, "Common Sense Medical Adviser," would prevent more than half the sickness in any family. It gives the best advice for curing common ailments without a doctor. It tells all about anatomy and physiology and the origin of life, and is the most valuable, practical medical work ever printed. and men... But these places... demands are so... to reason that... secure more than half a dozen... at the outset. I have... tion to this matter before... that men still continue... their Senators and members of Congress, insisting that they find places for them, and evidently in good faith, imagining that it is their duty, possibly at enough their demand will be satisfied. So long as the present civil service laws remain in force, the influence of Senators and members of Congress is practically nil.

No person can be given a place in any of the departments of the government or in the railway in the United States unless he has first passed the civil service examination. No member of Congress can change this requirement, not even the President unless he revoke certain orders. In view of these facts, many of our members of Congress when they write to them asking for appointments.

Health and strength carry us through dangers and make us safe in the presence of peril. A perfectly strong man with rich, pure blood has nothing to fear from germs. He may breathe in the bacilli of consumption with impunity. If there is a weak spot where the germs may find an entrance to the tissues, then the trouble begins. Disease germs propagate with lightning-like rapidity. Once in the blood, the only way to get rid of them is to kill them. This is what Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is for. It purifies the blood. That means that it kills the germs, but that is only part of what it does. It assists digestion by stimulating the secretion of digestive fluids so promoting assimilation and nutrition; purifies and enriches the blood and so supplies the tissues with the food they need. It builds up strong, healthy flesh and puts the whole body into a disease-resisting state.

Contest.

On Saturday evening the people of the street assembled near the public well in front of the Court House to witness a churning contest between the "Torrent Churn," made by the S. & P. Planing Mill Co., this city, and the "Parlor Churn," operated by Mr. J. H. Carico. The contestants quit at the same time, the "Torrent" making one ounce more butter than the "Parlor." The contestants not being satisfied had another churning at the same place on Monday afternoon, in which morning milk was poured from the same bucket, which resulted in the "Torrent" producing butter in three minutes and 45 seconds, while the "Parlor" had no butter, but in six minutes and ten seconds the "Parlor" made about half the amount of butter produced by the "Torrent." The "Torrent" was operated by F. F. Dawson, who is traveling for the churn.
